RECORD YOUR DEEDS
By an Act of Assembly of 1893, "All Deeds and Conveyances shall be recorded within ninety days after their execution, or shall be adjudged fraudulent and void against subsequent purchasers."
Also the Act of Assembly of 1909, prescribes a short form of Deeds, and "again requires the recording to make them valid."
It is also a great protection against loss or deed being burned by having them recorded, and costs but a small sum, compared to getting a new deed.
Bring or send them into the Recorder's office, and in a few days they will be returned to you.

TOURISTS WILL BE NUMEROUS

Excursions Booked by the Railroads Indicate that Tourist Trade during the Summer Months will be Brisk. Convention Visitors.

A large number of tours and excursions have been booked on the railroads entering Gettysburg for the next few months and there promises to be a goodly number of visitors here throughout the summer.

The national convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will be held in Harrisburg during the early part of May and an excursion from that city here, expected to bring about one thousand, has been booked over the Reading for May 14.

May 26 and 27 the Arion Singing Society of Newark, New Jersey, will visit Gettysburg and spend two days on the battlefield. On the twenty seventh another Newark party, the Sons of Herman Tourist Club, will also come, the two excursions bringing about five hundred.

A smaller party will be here earlier in the month, May 11, when the Municipal Club of Brooklyn, numbering about sixty members will come for a trip of several days over the field.

The Western Maryland has booked its customary Memorial Day excursions and special trains will come from Washington, Baltimore, York, Hancock, Cumberland and Elkins, West Virginia.

The Reading will attend to its end of the May thirtieth traffic in the usual way.

June 15 the Southern High School of Philadelphia will run a tour of its pupils here, one hundred and fifty being the number estimated to compose the party.

A party of about four hundred delegates from New England to the national Christian Endeavor convention is scheduled to come in over the Reading on July 13.

These have already made their arrangements with the railroads and a number of others are in prospect which have not yet closed.

BIG ADDITION TO REASER FACTORY

Six Thousand More Square Feet of Floor Space will be Added to Plant at East End of Town. To Improve Character of Output.

The Reaser Furniture Company has determined upon the erection of an additional structure to their already large plant at the east end of town and will soon commence operations on a brick building 40 x 150 feet.

The new addition will conform in design to the other buildings of the plant and will be located immediately east of the present factory. It will connect with the present finishing building and will be used for finishing and storage purposes.

The purpose of the company in adding this building is principally to improve the quality of the present output by adding more space and facilitating the work of the men as well as in giving better storage space. It will add six thousand feet of floor space. The new structure and the additional room, however, will not mean taking on a larger force, but is simply to relieve the congested condition which now exists.

The operations will start just as soon as material can be gotten together and the work will be hurried through as rapidly as possible.

The addition is another step forward in the progressive management of the plant.

CIRCUS COMING
Frank A. Robbins' circus will exhibit in Gettysburg on Monday June 12 coming here the preceding day from Hershey. The circus is a one ring aggregation which has appeared here previously and which has always made good. Fifteen cars carry the outfit.

FIRED SHOTS AT CHICKEN THIEF

Mail Carrier Bream Hears Marauder at Chicken Coop and Uses Gun. Little Booty Obtained and Thief Escaped Injury.

Two hens and a narrow escape from several loads of shot were the result of a chicken thief's visit to the premises of F. Mark Bream on Carlisle street at an early hour this morning. The timely discovery of the marauder evidently saved Mr. Bream's roost from further depredations for the visitor had taken a quiet time of night for his work and would have been unmolested had he been more careful.

About three o'clock one of the Bream household heard a noise at the chicken coop and raised the window. The racket evidently frightened the thief for Mr. Bream and several of the others in the home hurriedly donned a few clothes and hurried to the scene only to find the man going up the alley in the rear of the house.

He was soon lost in the darkness but several shots were sent after him, failing however to take effect. Neighbors were awakened by the firing but soon subsided after there were no further developments.

When Mr. Bream took account of the flock he found only two of the chickens missing.

ACCIDENT KILLS MAN OF MYSTERY

Captain Buckman, Living Along Chambersburg Pike Near Fayetteville Dies with Much of his Life Shrouded in Mystery.

Captain John Buckman died at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning at his farm east of Fayetteville along the pike "The Leeway." Sunday night he got up from bed and went to a cupboard to get a drink of whiskey from a bottle he kept there. One of his housekeepers had moved the flask in cleaning and he picked up a bottle of carbolic acid and drank two ounces of it. Despite medical attention which brought him from unconsciousness, he was too badly injured to recover.

This ends the life of one of the most mysterious characters ever known about here. His real name is known to but a few people in this locality and they will not tell it. He came originally, he had said, from Boston and served in the United States Navy during the Rebellion, under Admiral Farragut, under Fighting Bob Evans and Dewey. He later got into the mercantile marine and toured the world several times, having a very eventful life.

He came to this section about 26 to 28 years ago practically penniless but soon he seemed to get money and it turned out that he was getting a pension of $24 a month. He soon bought the fine farm east of Fayetteville, about 150 acres and built, 20 years ago, the handsome residence now on it.

About 18 years ago a middle aged woman and a younger one arrived and hired a man to haul them and their baggage to Captain Buckman's. The Captain met them on his porch and they had a talk, loud and bitter. He refused them admittance and they returned to the depot. They said they were the wife and daughter of Buckman and had come from Kentucky to make their home with him but he had sent them off. It is thought that they are still living. If so the estate will likely be claimed by them.

Although Captain Buckman was about 80 years of age he was vigorous and went to Chambersburg almost daily, frequently walking back and forth between his home and that place and would readily have passed for a man of not much over sixty. He would not say much about himself and although it was known that he had a very animated and interesting career he would not talk of it.

DR. BRUMBAUGH ILL

Dr. Brumbaugh, Superintendent of Philadelphia Schools, and well known here, is ill at his home. About a year ago he slipped on an icy step and fell with such force as to injure a ligament in his back. The real nature of his trouble was not at first known, but by degrees it became so serious that about last Christmas he was compelled to give up his work and go to Atlantic City, where he remained several weeks under the care of physicians who discovered the true nature of his injury.

He recovered to some extent, but a few weeks ago he again had to give up work and take a brief rest in the South, which also gave him slight relief. Last Sunday night the trouble came upon him again with renewed violence and bringing with it what is feared to be nervous prostration.

BLIGHT COMING THIS WAY

Governor Tener is urging warfare against the chestnut blight which has started westward through Pennsylvania and has already reached York County, Adams being next in line. In a message to the State Legislature on Monday Governor Tener said in part:

"Experiments made by the department of agriculture at Washington demonstrate that it is possible to prevent the spread of the disease by removing spot appearances as they are detected, and destroying the trees in which the disease occurs. By this means the region around the city of Washington has been freed from the blight for at least two years, and it has not reinvented this area. In the southeastern portion of Pennsylvania, where the infection is severe and almost complete, little hope exists for saving the trees, but in that portion of the state west of the Susquehanna and north of the Blue mountains, it is hoped, by prompt action on the part of the state to prevent further damage. If the disease can be held within the southeastern portion of the state, it will mean the saving of the wild chestnut trees in the other parts of the commonwealth, the value of which extends into the millions of dollars."

"I therefore recommend that the legislature give immediate attention to this important subject and that a commission be created with sufficient power and appropriation of moneys to determine upon and employ sufficient and radical means for the prevention, control and eradication of this disease and that said commission be authorized, in conjunction with the department of forestry or otherwise to conduct scientific investigations into the nature and causes of such disease and to adopt such means to prevent its introduction and spread as may be found necessary."

A bill following Governor Tener's suggestion has been introduced since he transmitted the message.

REOPENS SWOPE MURDER CASE

Dr. Hyde, Once Convicted, is Released Under Bond.

SUPREME COURT DECISION

Physician Alleged to Have Killed Millionaire With Poison Capsules—Application For New Trial Attacks Testimony.

Kansas City, Mo., April 12.—Dr. B. Clark Hyde, convicted after a sensational trial of the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, a millionaire philanthropist, was granted a new trial by the Missouri supreme court, sitting at Jefferson City.

Dr. Hyde has been in the county jail at Kansas City nearly a year, following a sentence to life imprisonment.

When news of the court's decision reached the county jail Dr. Hyde was taking his usual promenade in front of his cell on the third floor.

His lawyers shouted up to him: "You have been granted a new trial."

Hyde stopped a moment, smiled, said "Thank you, gentlemen," and proceeded on his walk.

When the other prisoners learned the import of the news a minute later they crowded around Dr. Hyde and congratulated him. For the first time since his incarceration he mingled among his fellow prisoners.

The news traveled quickly from tier to tier, and as the prisoners, men and women, on the different floors heard it, cheering that had started in Hyde's corner spread quickly throughout the entire prison. For fully five minutes the demonstration continued.

A coincidence in connection with the Hyde decision is that it comes upon April 11, exactly one year from the date that his trial began.

An important point in the decision remanding Hyde was that the court said Judge Latshaw's action in ordering Dr. Hyde locked up during the progress of his trial was "improper and unjustified."

The supreme court, in setting aside the verdict of the trial court, remands Hyde "to the custody of the marshal of Jackson county without bail."

History of Dr. Hyde's Case.

The court's decision was on an appeal of Hyde's attorneys for a new trial. He was sentenced July 5, 1910, to life imprisonment by Judge Latshaw. On Sept. 23, 1910, his attorneys asked the highest court in the state for a new hearing, charging error in 255 points. These included the following allegations:

That the indictments were illegal and the evidence insufficient to support the allegation; that competent testimony was barred and incompetent testimony received; that prejudicial remarks were allowed by the prosecutor and by the court; that the court should not have revoked Hyde's bond during the trial, and that the verdict was the result of passion and prejudice.

The chief evidence attacked was that of the Chicago and Michigan toxicologists who examined the viscera of the dead man, Colonel Swope. An especial attack was made on Professor Vaughn, of Michigan, who testified he found strychnine in the liver of Colonel Swope.

Denies Wife After 51 Years.

Newburyport, Mass., April 12.—Mrs. Sarah Clark, of Newburyport, petitioned the superior court at Salem to order James W. Clark, of this city, to recognize her as his wife. She claims that they were married in Nashua, N. H., on June 6, 1858, and that they lived together for fifty-one years until two years ago, when her husband left her, saying they were never married.

Need Not Change $5.

Richmond, Va., April 12.—Holding that a street car conductor need not make change for more than $2 offered for fare, Judge Ingram dismissed the case of A. R. Bradshaw for damages for ejectment from a trolley car. The judge held that after the refusal of Bradshaw's tender of $5 he became a trespasser on the company's property.

Pierce Statue Bill Dies.

Concord, N. H., April 12.—The memory of Franklin May Pierce, fourteenth president of the United States, and the only son of New Hampshire to attain that office, will not be honored by the erection of a statue by order of the present legislature. The senate killed the house bill providing for such a memorial.

GUN FIRE SPOILS EGGS

Naval Tests on Old San Marcos Kills Crabs and Unhatched Chicks. Norfolk, Va., April 12.—The killing of many unhatched chickens and hundreds of hard shell crabs by the big twelve-inch guns of the battleship New Hampshire when they sunk the old battleship San Marcos in Tangier sound, Chesapeake bay, during naval experiments, has caused farmers and crab packers of the eastern shore of Virginia and Maryland to protest against further similar tests.

Heavy losses resulted to these people from the first tests, and they hope to induce the navy department to call off another test which is scheduled to take place soon.

It is declared that for a radius of twenty-five miles about Tangier sound chickens about to be hatched under hens and in incubators, as well as hard shell crabs packed for shipment to the northern markets were killed by the heavy concussions.

BIG MEN INVOLVED

Probers Know Contributors to Lorimer "Slush Fund."

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—According to a story in circulation here the legislative committee which is investigating charges of bribery in connection with the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate, is in possession of the names of the persons referred to as "we" in the alleged conversation between Clarence S. Funk and Edward Hines, at the Union League club, Chicago.

One of the persons is said to be the manager of a large store in Chicago. The other is said to be the president of a Chicago bank.

According to Funk's testimony, Hines told him that "we" had to put Lorimer over hurriedly and that it cost $100,000, which "we" are now trying to collect back from some of our friends.

FIRE HORROR SHOP OWNERS INDICTED

Charged With Manslaughter and Released on Bail.

New York, April 12.—Isaac Harris and Max Black, owners of the Triangle Waist company, were indicted by the grand jury which is investigating the circumstances of the Washington place fire of March 25, in or as a result of which 145 employees of the company lost their lives.

The indictments, four in number, charge each man with manslaughter in the first and second degrees, the maximum penalty for which is twenty and ten years' imprisonment respectively. Harris and Black were released under $25,000 bail.

The indictments charge that the defendants are responsible for the deaths of Rosie Grasso and Margaret Schwartz, whose charred bodies were found on the ninth floor of the burned building. The district attorney hopes to prove that the girls tried the door in an effort to escape, but that it was locked. A charred piece of the door in question, with the bolt shot, was shown to the grand jury, as well as part of the burned stairway. A few minutes afterwards the indictments were returned. Other indictments may follow.

AN EASTER MORNING

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Captain Ned Collins had made preparations to quit a seafaring life, settle down on a little farm that had been the dream of his life and spend the rest of his days with his family. He had sold his cottage by the ocean and bought the farm. One more voyage remained to him, at the end of which he was to give up the one and enter upon the other. The voyage he had laid out would bring him home in the month of April, and his boys were to prepare the ground of his farm for planting against his return. Then when his last cruise had been completed the family would spend the summer on the farm—the first summer they had ever spent together.

Mrs. Collins was one of those women who are always looking ahead for something to happen. When she bade goodby to her husband she remembered cases wherein persons had made a last venture which proved a last one in more ways than one. Several of her friends had sailed on a last voyage intending not to make another and had never returned. She did not take account of the many who had returned and lived to a good old age at home. Her husband had no sooner sailed than she showed by her demeanor that this feeling was troubling her. Her eldest daughter, Helen, a girl of strong religious faith, strove to comfort her. She reminded her mother that the same God was supreme upon the ocean as on the land; that if he intended that their dear one should return to them no storm was fierce enough to prevent. For a time such arguments as this would dispel the forebodings of the wife and mother, but not for long.

Letters came from Captain Collins from various points at which the ship, the Helen Collins, named for its master's daughter, touched—Porto Rico and other tropical ports. Then came news of one of those West Indian hurricanes that are a terror both on land and on sea. Day upon day, week upon week, passed after the storm had subsided and no word came from the Helen Collins. From the first the captain's wife gave up all hope. Her children, who were not overconfident, did what they could to instill hope within their mother, but without much success.

The winter passed, and the spring began to peep from beneath the soil. The boys told their mother that they were going to prepare the farm for a crop. In case their father should return and find that nothing had been done he would be disappointed.

In March, when it became necessary to do the first planting, the children begged their mother to remove to the farm, and she only consented because she must give up the cottage to the new owner and if she remained in the same locality would need to rent or buy another. So they moved their belongings to their new home.

"It will never be a home to me," said the mother, "without your father. I had a feeling when he left us that he would never return to enjoy this place, and that foreboding has been realized."

"Mother," said Helen impressively, "I have a feeling. It is more than a feeling—it is a hope. Easter will be here within a fortnight. The day is typical of a renewed life. I believe that father will be with us on or before the anniversary of the rising of our Saviour."

"Oh, my child, you have no foundation on which to rest such a belief." "Nor is there any foundation for the feeling you experienced when he sailed that he would not return. Of the two mine is by far the better, since it is the more comforting. And was not the great resurrection that occurred nearly twenty centuries ago intended to give hope to mankind?"

But the days passed, the radishes, the peas, the beets and other early vegetables showed their tips above the soil, and Captain Collins did not return. Instead parts of the wreckage of his ship were picked up at sea and their finding reported by a returning ship. This news came the day before Easter, and if there had been a ray of hope in the breast of the mother would return it was abandoned. Only Helen clung to what she called her belief.

Easter morning broke bright and beautiful. After breakfast all went out to have a look at the growing plants. The children kept calling their mother's attention to this and that row of springing vegetables, remarking how rapidly it was growing, in order to divert her mind from her bereavement. A balmy breeze was coming up from the south.

"Mother," said Helen, "I have one of your feelings. Not the same kind of a one, for it is more like a hope. I'm thinking this sweet smelling breeze has come all the way from the tropics to tell us that father is living, even if he can't yet be with us."

"Oh, Helen, you have such absurd ideas."

"Father!" The exclamation came from little Joe. All turned and saw the child running with open arms to a skeleton of a man who was coming toward them. The boy jumped into the man's arms, and all knew that the husband and father had returned.

Captain Ned Collins, with a part of his crew, had been picked up in a lifeboat and carried far from home.

G. O. P. CHOICES MADE IN HOUSE

Minority Leader Mann Picks His Committeemen.

CANNON ON APPROPRIATIONS

Every Effort Has Been Made to Harmonize Insurgents and Regulars in the House.

Washington, April 12.—When Representative Mann, as leader of the house minority, announced in the house the committee assignments on which he had determined, it was clear that the key to his selections was a purpose to minimize the factional differences between the Republican regulars and the insurgents.

Probably a further explanation can be found in the fact that Mann is ambitious to be speaker, and is looking ahead to the day when he hopes the Republicans will recapture the house and he will have behind him the united support of both elements.

In addition, the appointments make it plain that there is a distinct purpose on the part of the Republican leaders in congress to adjust differences among Republicans and pave the way for the campaign of 1912.

Two of the most prominent of the insurgents are given places on the rules committee, although the Republicans have only four places in all. They are Representatives Madison, of Kansas, and Lenroot, of Wisconsin.

Representative Norris, of Nebraska, the man who engineered the revolt in the house that resulted in throwing "Uncle Joe" Cannon off the rules committee, is placed on judiciary. Representative Murdock, of Kansas, has been restored to the rank on the post office committee, of which he was deprived by Speaker Cannon.

Other Appointments.

Not less significant is the selection of Representative Good, of Iowa, for a place on the appropriations committee. Mr. Good is a Cummins man and a progressive Republican. He succeeds Walter I. Smith, who was a leading regular and who has gone to the circuit bench. It is an interesting fact that Senator Cummins asked Mann to appoint Good to this place, although it is known that Mann was seriously considering it before Cummins made the request.

Representative Hubbard, of Iowa, who is one of the most unrelenting of the house insurgents, is retained on insular affairs, and is at the head of the minority on the committee on expenditures in the department of justice. This is significant in view of the fact that Hubbard and Attorney General Wickersham are personal friends, and the attorney general is anxious to get increased appropriations for trust busting by his department.

In general the insurgents throughout have been shown the utmost consideration. "Uncle Joe" Cannon has been placed at the head of the minority on the committee on appropriations, which will probably make him the Republican leader in debates on appropriation matters.

In the Republican membership on ways and means those old high tariff war horses, Dalzell and Payne, are retained. Minority Leader Mann took no committee assignments himself. His place as ranking member of the interstate and foreign commerce committee goes to Frederick C. Stevens, of Minnesota. The Republican list includes the assignment of Victor L. Berger, the Wisconsin Socialist, to the committee on District of Columbia affairs, and the assignment of Theron Aklin, the New York independent Democrat, to the committee on education and on enrollment bills.

NEGROES INVADING CANADA

The Exodus From Oklahoma to Alberta Continues.

Guthrie, Okla., April 12.—The exodus of negroes from this state to Alberta, which started several months ago, is continuing despite the fact that it is not being encouraged by the Canadian government.

Twenty negro farmers from near Falls, Lincoln county, left to join the colony in Alberta. They expect to take claims and immediately build homes and start their crops, after which their families, numbering in all about 200 persons, will join them. It is said that a colonization company is financing the negroes during the first season.

New Orleans Is Flooded.

WICKERSHAM TARGET OF DEMOCRATIC AIM

Resolution in House to Probe His "Outside Employment."

Washington, April 12.—Seeking particularly to inquire whether Attorney General Wickersham has any "outside employment" which would disqualify him from his cabinet position, Representative Rainey, of Illinois, introduced a resolution designed to open the way for a thorough investigation of the department of justice.

Mr. Rainey has attacked the department of justice before as a member of the minority in the house, but now he appeals to congress with his own party in control.

The resolution, referred to the committee on rules, provides that a committee of nine—six Democrats and three Republicans—conduct the investigation, and it asks an appropriation of $15,000 to cover the expense. It directs a thorough inquiry into all cases instituted under the Sherman anti-trust law and the commodities clause of the Hepburn railroad rate law, and to ascertain what cases, if any, were dropped and the reasons therefor.

Mr. Rainey's resolution also contemplates an inquiry into the appropriations to the department of justice for employment of special counsel, how expended and in what cases, and also what special counsel now is employed and upon what character of work.

WILL ACT ON RECIPROCITY

Canadian Treaty to Be First Thing Considered by Congress.

Washington, April 12.—Canadian reciprocity will be the first thing considered by the house of representatives.

Accepting President Taft's pledge that he would not prorogue congress the house committee of Democrats decided to act on reciprocity first and then to bring in a bill putting many of the necessities of life on the free list.

The free list bill, which will be brought into the house immediately after reciprocity, includes the following articles: Agricultural implements, such as plows, harrows, reapers, binders and mowers; boots and shoes; saddles and saddlery; wire fencing; baling wire; cotton bagging and ties; coarse sacks; burlap; lumber; flour; dressed meats and meat products; and sewing machines.

Washington, April 12.—If the extra session of congress does not confine President Taft too closely to Washington he may journey to Texas to witness the maneuvers of the troops now stationed there.

Governor Colquitt, of Texas, has invited the president to visit Texas while the troops are there, and the president has expressed his desire to do so if possible.

VALUE OF THE SOY BEAN.

Not Liked For Human Food, but Growing In Importance For Forage.

The soy bean, also called the "soja bean," is a native of southeastern Asia and has been extensively cultivated in Japan, China and India since ancient times. The beans are there grown almost entirely for human food. Their flavor, however, does not commend them to Caucasian appetites. As a forage crop, however, soy beans have become of increasing importance in parts of the United States, especially southward. They have been tested at most of the state agricultural experiment stations, and it is clear that their region of maximum importance will be south of the red clover area and in sections where alfalfa cannot be grown successfully. They thus compete principally with cowpeas, but as cultivation is usually required they fill a somewhat different agricultural need. Their culture has greatly increased in recent years, especially in Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky and the southern part of Illinois and Indiana. It seems certain that the crop will become one of great importance in the regions mentioned and probably over a much wider area. The earlier varieties mature even in Minnesota, Ontario and Massachusetts.

As a hay plant the soy bean cannot successfully compete with red clover or alfalfa.

The soy bean is especially adapted to the cotton belt and northward into the southern part of the corn belt. The early varieties mature in the northern part of the corn belt, but frequently do not make a sufficient yield to warrant growing them. Farther south where the later and larger varieties can be grown, the yield is sufficient to make their extensive cultivation very profitable. Generally speaking, the soy bean requires about the same temperature as corn. It is perhaps even better adapted to a warm climate and does not do well in a cool climate.

The soil requirements of soy beans are much the same as those of corn. They will make a satisfactory growth on poorer soil than corn, provided inoculation is present, but will not make nearly as good a growth on poor soil as cowpeas. Soy beans make their best development on fairly fertile loams or clays. The Mammoth variety also succeeds well on sandy soils. On rich soils all varieties are apt to make a large plant growth and a comparatively small yield of seed and on the poorer soils a small plant growth with a relatively large seed yield.

Soy beans do not require a well drained soil for their best development, although they will not grow in a soil where water stands for any considerable length of time. However, they are able to withstand a greater amount of moisture than either corn or cowpeas.

Soy beans are also decidedly drought resistant, much more so than cowpeas, and but for the depredations of rabbits would be a valuable crop in the semiarid west. Rabbits are exceedingly fond of the foliage, and where they are numerous it is nearly useless to plant soy beans unless the field can be inclosed with rabbit proof fencing.

The matter of variety is of special importance in soy beans, as many growers have been sorely disappointed in getting a small early variety when they desired a larger and later sort.—Bulletin United States Department of Agriculture.

The Roosevelt dam on the Salt river, Arizona, to be dedicated by Mr. Roosevelt next March, is a mass of masonry 240 feet high, built at a cost of $6,000,000, which will retain the waters of a lake covering 17,000 acres. This water will be used to irrigate 200,000 acres, with an additional 40,000 acres to be supplied by pumping.

BUILDS FORT TO DEFEND MINES

American Mining Engineer in Mexico Organizes "Army."

ARMS COMPANY'S EMPLOYES

Stronghold Is Stocked With 1000 Stand of Rifles and 100,000 Rounds of Ammunition.

San Antonio, Tex., April 12.—A letter received here from Guanajuato, the capital city of the Mexican state of that name, tells of the unique preparations that have been made there by an American mining engineer to stand off any and all insurgents that may show their heads and to keep his mines working under the most trying conditions.

This American is known as Joe Bill McDonald, and the thing he has done to insure the operation of his properties is to build a fort over them and to stock it with 1000 rifles and 100,000 rounds of ammunition.

This action Joe Bill McDonald has taken despite the fact that he is on Mexican soil and within a few miles of the palace of the governor of Guanajuato. In fact, the governor, who has only a handful of troops to guard his frontiers, is right glad that Joe Bill has taken such a positive initiative.

McDonald is in charge of a group of twenty-one properties, over which the Guadalupe smelting interests have control. Chief of the mines are the Esperanza, the Consolidated and El Oro, all famous throughout Central Mexico for their wealth and the magnitude of the works attached to them. There are fully 800 Americans under McDonald and he employs 500 Mexican peons. Guanajuato is one of the states of Mexico wherein the anti-American spirit has exhibited itself pretty strongly, and McDonald has taken every precaution in the past to see that the Americans under him should not in any way provoke trouble with the Mexicans. He has also been a strong supporter of the Diaz government, and because of that attitude he is solid with the governor of Guanajuato.

The nearest band of insurgents is forty miles away. The information, which also came with the news of the mining engineer's defenses, was that throughout all that state and in the neighboring states of Jalisco the haciendas of wealthy ranch owners had contributed 50,000 pesos to the insurrection fund since January. Some of this money was levied outright; the rest of it will be given voluntarily by men secretly opposed to the Diaz government.

Throughout all the country thereabout starvation is becoming terribly common. Because of the failure of three successive crops, due to drought, the peons were very poor before the insurrection started, but the conditions throughout Mexico and the shutting down of many of the mines and the smelters have reduced the mass of the people to the lowest state. Lack of food is one prime inspiration for the constant recruiting of the insurgents, for the armed bands can command food from the wealthy, and all the insurgents have at least sufficient food to travel on.

Stinemar, who was twice found guilty on charges growing out of the failure of the Farmers' and Merchants' National bank, at Mount Pleasant, was remanded to the custody of the United States marshal to serve his original term of five years in the United States prison at Leavenworth, Kan., by Judge Orr, in the United States district court.

Religion Cause of Broken Troth.

Washington, April 12.—Religious differences are now said to have been the cause of the breaking of the engagement between Miss Cecelia May and Robert Bacon, Jr. Cardinal Gibbons had granted a dispensation. It is said differences still existed. It is believed that the matter will eventually be adjusted and that the marriage will take place.

MAN'S GREATEST ASSET

Is physical strength and bodily health. The bread winner cannot afford to give out.

It is a vital necessity that he keep his nervous and muscular system in good condition to withstand the daily wear and tear of life.

Those who are run-down or nervous should remember that nothing excels Vinol, which is a combination of the medicinal elements of the cod's liver and tonic iron, to strengthen the digestive organs, create an appetite, make new blood and restore strength.

Prof. James Mitchell, of Jasper, Ont., says his system was run down to a critical point from overwork. A friend told him to take Vinol. He did so and is now enjoying perfect health, and he considers Vinol a wonderful tonic. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We ask every run-down, overworked, weak person in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. People's Drug Store, C. Wm. Beales, proprietor, Gettysburg, Pa.

CONCERNING THE MULE.

Animal Much Appreciated Where He Is Best Known.

More than any other animals mules will reflect the disposition of the people who handle them. I do not know why this is, but it is true. If I see a good mule I know at once that the people who handled him when he was small were horsemen, writes an Iowa correspondent of Breeder's Gazette. A vicious mule, one that kicks and bites, indicates that his first owners were cruel with their stock. Where a mule is allowed to develop naturally he has

Those who are familiar with mules say there is never any trouble with them if they are treated right from the time they are small. More farmers ought to raise them. Mules are not only good animals to have on the farm, but there is always a demand for them, and they always bring a good price. The jack shown herewith comes from a noted family. He is a two-year-old by Bourbon, Jr., out of Lady Artist.

A great many good qualities that horses do not have. In the first place, he is not nervous. He does not get excited over every little thing and work himself into a lather and wear himself out. He is tough. Many a good mule can stand it to work against two ordinary horses.

A mule can travel on the road or work in the field all day and at night when he is turned out, if he has had kind treatment and care, he will go off into the field kicking up and shaking his head. It is very seldom that you see a mule that will run away. He is too curious. His curiosity is always greater than his fear. If he sees anything that frightens him, instead of running he will slowly go up to it. A mule has better sense than a horse about food and drink. He will never eat when he is tired or drink when he is too hot. For this reason a mule team is always better for a hired hand to use, because if the hand does not know what is best for them they will take care of themselves.

The people of Missouri have always realized the worth and value of the mule. They not only enjoy many advantages from breeding mules, but they are reaping pecuniary profit as well. From 150 miles north of the Missouri river down to the southern part of the state the people drive mules and use them for every purpose. We saw fine mule teams hitched to buggies and women driving them. You see fields in that state with seventy and eighty mules in them. Missouri has a worldwide reputation as a breeding ground for fine mules, and so also has Kentucky. Some mules in those two states stand nearly seventeen hands high and have the neck and legs of a thoroughbred horse with depth of chest and body. In the south the general verdict is that for strength, endurance and kindness, for general utility purposes, the mule is head and neck ahead of the horse.

Feeding the Calf.

It's a shame to keep the calf in a small place that smells so you can hardly endure it long enough to feed him. And talk about raising calves on bran water, hay tea, etc. If it's a case of "have to," all right, go ahead, but you can't raise as good calves on any substitute as you can on good milk direct from the cow. This is our way of raising fat, sleek calves.—Farm Journal.

Tying Up Horses.

Horses that are liable to cast them selves in their stalls should be tied with neck halter, which gives them much more freedom of the head than the nose halter allows.

It is odd how hard some folks will work their hands and feet when the moderate exercise of a little cellular tissue under their hats would save both time and energy. To illustrate by a simple case, a gardener we know, who has a gasoline pumping plant, climbs a ladder a distance of twenty-five or thirty feet to the top of his tank several times a day in order to see how much water there is in it when by placing a float in the tank, attaching thereto a cord and running it through a pulley over the edge and fastening a light weight to it on the outside he could stand on the ground and tell the exact stage of water in the tank without moving a foot. This man is not lazy, but during the spring and summer season begins work before light in the morning and keeps at it often until after dark at night. He climbs that ladder with his hands and feet simply because he fails to use his head.

BLACK KNOT.

One of the Worst and Most Common of Cherry and Plum Diseases. Black knot of plums and cherries is one of the most common and destructive of the plant diseases affecting our orchard trees. It is marked by large black swellings or knots appearing on the limbs of certain varieties of cherries and plums. In some sections this disease is exceedingly common and destructive. It is caused by a fungus living as a parasite in the bark and wood of the plum or cherry. This fungus reproduces itself and spreads by means of spores which are carried by the wind and lodge in the crevices of the bark or on the buds, where they germinate, penetrate the living bark and by their presence and growth irritate the cambium, the growing part of the limb. The plant responds to this irritation by the increased growth of this part at the point affected, which eventually results in the black knots so characteristic of the disease. It takes approximately two years for the fungus to complete its development in the tree—that is, from the time the spores first lodge on the twig until the knots have matured and their last crop of spores has been distributed, says H. H. Wetzels, plant pathologist, writing in the Rural New Yorker.

BLACK KNOT.

The period of infection—that is, the time when the tree may take the disease—is probably from May to July. The knots do not appear on the limbs until the following spring, when in the month of April or May they burst forth and in June become covered with a green felt upon which are produced great numbers of summer spores or conidia. These are scattered by the wind and produce new infections in June and July. The knots then gradually become black in color and in March or April of the second year produce another set of spores in minute pockets all over the surface of the knots. These so called winter spores are distributed in May or June, causing another new set of infections. It is thus evident that the knot may cause new infections for two years in succession. These knots are not caused by insects, as is very often supposed.

The most satisfactory means of controlling this disease consists of a surgical operation—namely, removal of all limbs and twigs bearing knots, cutting at least three or four inches below the knot in every case. The proper time for cutting out the knots is early in the spring, say not later than May, and again in the fall as soon as the leaves are off the trees.

Permanent relief from the trouble cannot be expected unless an effort is made to eradicate the disease from the entire neighborhood, at least for considerable distances in the direction of the prevailing winds. Old cherry and plum trees should be very carefully pruned out and put in shape or else cut down and destroyed. All knots should be burned promptly after cutting from the tree.

Selecting Seed Wheat.

According to the Kansas wheat growers, the idea that large kernels of wheat germinate better than small ones is a mistake. The germinating power is, rather, dependent on the density of the kernels.

When you take an inventory of the farm do not fail to make note of its healthful surroundings and its attractive features for a happy home.

Hints For the Farmer.

In the north it is hardly safe to plant cucumbers until the middle or last of May. The crop may be planted even as late as the latter part of June.

Nitrogen is by far the most important element in producing a crop of cabbage. It should be quickly available. Top dressing with nitrate of soda is becoming more and more common. Try it on the early crop.

Spring is the ideal time for germinating all seeds. The ground is in mellow and fine tilth after the winter freezing and full of moisture. This applies especially to fine seeds and delicate plants like the alfalfa.

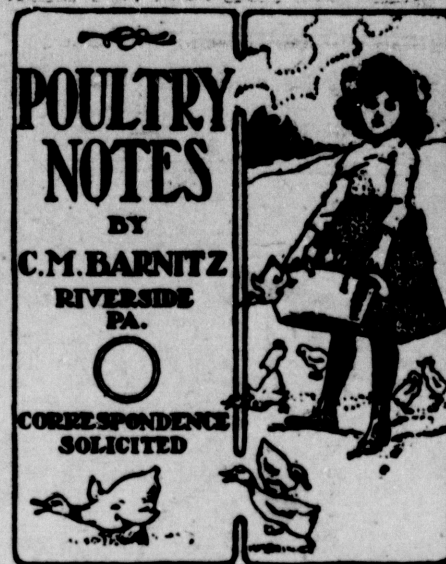

A spring tooth harrow should seldom if ever be used after plowing sod land unless stones are troublesome. The results are much better when a good disk or spading harrow is used alternately with a drag or a float.

By spraying alone many of the old apple orchards which have never borne a crop can be made very profitable. These should be sprayed when the blossoms show a little pink and again as soon as the fruit has set, with a third spraying about two weeks later.

There is no reason why anybody should have trouble in growing strawberries. With any ordinary good garden soil placed where both the air and water drainage are good the strawberry will thrive, provided it gets only ordinary cultural care at the important times of its life.

The farmers of Denmark carry on not only remarkably successful co-operative dairies and creameries, but bacon factories. The output of the latter runs into millions annually and are so economically managed that the members realize 4 cents more per pound for their bacon than the hog raisers of any other country.

While the raising of horses is attended with greater risk than the raising of cattle or sheep, the fact remains that when properly conducted the horse business is one of the most profitable lines of animal husbandry. With prices continuing at present levels one can count on from 10 to 12 cents per pound at from two to three years old, depending upon individuality and type. In this connection it is well worth remembering that it costs no more to raise a fine, well bred animal than it does a scrub, while the returns may be from one and a half to two times as large, and the satisfaction to be had is many times as great.

IT'S TIME TO KICK.

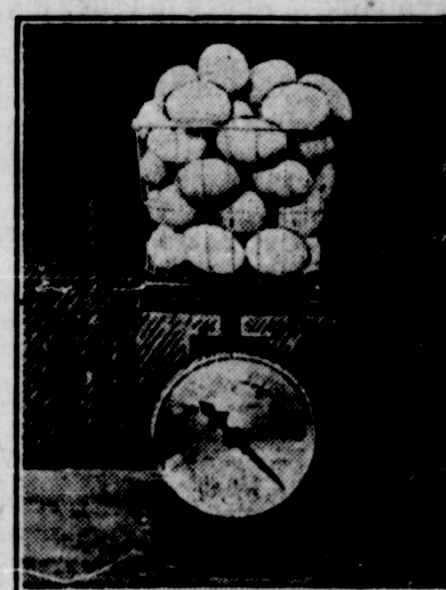

Do you kick? What at? At buying eggs by the dozen, that old hoopskirt fad that should have been relegated to the scrap pile long ago.

You lose much on eggs by the dozen and can only get a square deal by weight. Note by the following list the difference in weight of a dozen eggs from various breeds:

Light Brahmas, twenty-eight ounces; Black Minorca, twenty-seven ounces; Barred Rock, twenty-six ounces; Black Langshan, twenty-six ounces; White Wyandotte, twenty-four ounces; Buff Cochins, twenty-four ounces; S. C. White Leghorn, twenty-three ounces; S. C. Brown Leghorn, twenty-two ounces; Hamburg, twenty-one ounces.

You pay the same for twelve Hamburg eggs weighing twenty-one ounces as for twelve Brahmas weighing twenty-eight ounces.

A dozen Hamburg pullet eggs weighing seventeen ounces are on a par with a dozen Minorca hens' eggs that weigh twenty-seven ounces.

JUMBO EGGS OVER TWO POUNDS PER DOZEN.

You get butter by pound and milk by quart, but for eggs there is no standard—"aigs is jist eggs"—and any little thing counts. But you are not the only loser.

The man that produces big eggs loses.

They cost more to produce than small ones and yet must be sold by the dozen for the same money.

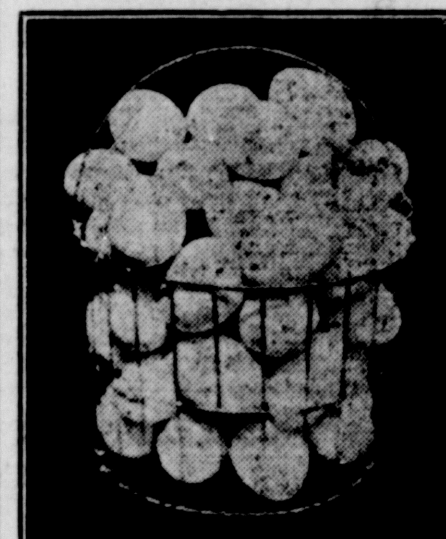

To lay in November Brahmas must be hatched in March; Rocks, Dories and Reds in April; White Leghorns and Hamburgs in May, June or July.

Thus Brahmas that lay the heaviest eggs must be fed from two to four months longer than Hamburgs before they lay as pullets, but their eggs sell the same.

A Brahma eats 100 pounds of grain a year, Rocks ninety pounds, Leghorns or Hamburgs sixty pounds, yet their eggs sell the same.

Dr. Wiley criticises American egg farmers for producing small eggs.

We notify the erudite gentleman that there is no inducement under the rule of twelve for practical men to produce big eggs.

If they were running egg plants for amusement or with a government appropriation it would be different.

Eggs by weight will encourage the production of big eggs, give everybody a square deal and give the old evaporated storage egg a solar plexus.

Ask your congressman to introduce a bill requiring that hen fruit shall be standardized and not sold by a method that belongs to the era of trading brass beads for skunkskins.

DON'TS.

Don't kill your ten pound roosters for ordinary market. Best sale, highest price, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Don't ship small and large squabs in the same package. You will receive the small price for both.

Don't sell dressed squabs in open market. You will get better prices from hospitals and restaurants.

Don't let squabs get cold before picking. Feathers will pull hard and skin will tear.
